State Appraising Property

Land Located Near Bushkill, Dingmans

STATE Department of Forests and Waters is now appraising properties in the Bushkill-Dingmans Ferry region.

Appraising is confined to properties owned by persons who have indicated they would be willing to sell land to the state.

Department officials are acting in accordance with a law passed last year which authorizes the State to buy up land for potential construction of an Upper Delaware River Basin dam for water resources and flood control.

That law also set aside funds for use in such purchases. Present action by the Department retained by the Department would indicate that the State is taking its first steps toward reserve-purchase of land and property it may need.

Two Sites

Two sites have been studied as locations for the proposed dam. One of these—the oldest in terms of surveys made by government and private agencies—is at Wallpack Bend. The second is at Tock's Island, upstream from Shawnee and below Bushkill.

The two area realtors are Forrest Smith, Stroudsburg, and Allen Titus, Milford. They are acting on the authority of Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, Secretary of Forests and Waters for the Commonwealth.

It was at a meeting last October that Dr. Goddard talked over the legislation with property owners. At that meeting a list of property owners indicating they would sell land to the State for its stockpiling program was drawn up.

According to Smith there are a total of 63 property owners' names on the list. Each of these persons—and only these—are to be contacted, he said.

List

Smith and Titus began their appraisal work this past week. The local realtor said that all the properties on the list "run from Bushkill to this side of Milford." None of the properties in below the Bushkill line, he said.

The list made up at the October meeting, however, would normally contain the names of Bushkill-to-Milford area property owners since the meeting was made up primarily of these residents.

Smith said that he and Titus have measured about 10 of the properties so far. They are now assimilating data collected on properties, and in county records, he said.

If plans for the dam construction go through under terms discussed by State officials and the Corps of Engineers, Smith said, it seems likely that some 500 properties would, in the end, be affected by the construction program.

Smith said that properties included on the list of 63 run the gamut of all types: from cottages along the river front to hotels, motels, farms and residential regions.

Parliament Gives Confidence Vote

TEHRAN, Iran, April 14 (AP)—Parliament gave Premier Manouchehr Eghbal a vote of confidence today. The tally was 110 to 0, with four abstentions.

Dr. Eghbal, who became premier April 3, promised to continue the fight against Communists and root out poverty in Iran. He said formation of political parties will be permitted — except Communists.

Jordan's King Drops Pro-Egypt Elements

DAMASCUS, Syria, April 14 (AP)—King Hussein of Jordan drove out pro-Egyptian elements in his army and government today in a military coup d'état.

Maj. Gen. Ali Abu Nawar, army chief of staff, was deported to Syria and ousted Premier Suleiman Nabulsi was reported under house arrest.

At least two clashes were reported between army units loyal to Hussein and pro-Egyptian army elements. Tanks guarded the royal palace.

Radio

The Jordanian radio said the Arab Legion had put down an attempted army coup against the King and pledged its loyalty to Hussein.

Crowds supporting the popular Nabulsi were reported demonstrating wildly in Jordan's towns on the western border with Israel. A strike against the King's action was threatened.

Nawar fled to Damascus. He conferred at length with top officials of Syria, strongly allied to Egypt.

The King was supported by Maj. Gen. Ali Hayari, whom he named the new chief of staff.

Other ministers in Nabulsi's Cabinet also were detained, it was reported. A number of Nabulsi's followers in Jordan's Parliament also were driven from the country. Some already have arrived in Damascus.

Hussein's measures were described here as a pro-Iraq coup d'état.

Iraq, ruled by Hussein's cousin, King Faisal, is allied with the West in the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact, an alliance bitterly opposed by the governments of Syria and Egypt.

Censorship imposed in Jordan during the crisis caused by Hussein's dismissal of Nabulsi last week has cut communications with that country. The reports from Damascus could not be confirmed

from Amman.)

Sources

Reliable sources said the King acted after a clash between a desert regiment loyal to Hussein and pro-Nawar soldiers at a military base at Zarka, a town 30 miles northeast of Amman, Jordan's capital.

Three pro-Nawar officers were killed, 10 wounded and 10 captured in the fighting between Jordanian army units at Zarka.

Unconfirmed reports said another clash occurred between pro-Hussein and pro-Nawar army elements at Ajloun on Jordan's northern border.

Nawar was summoned to Hussein's palace, which then was surrounded by tanks under Hayari's orders. A royal decree was issued dismissing Nawar and naming Hayari to replace him.

Nawar was sent out of the country with his wife, parents and children and reached Damascus tonight.

Senate May Sustain House Cuts

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—Sens. Byrd (D-Va.) and Bridges (R-NH) predicted today the Senate will sustain a "major share" of the more than a billion dollars the House has cut from President Eisenhower's money requests.

Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he thinks there is "a new attitude" in favor of economy among senators who traditionally have restored much of the money the House trims from the regular appropriation bills.

Policy

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and top GOP member of the Appropriations Committee, said in a separate interview he believes that in some instances the Senate may cut even deeper than the House.

"Some of the funds the House members have reduced are going to be increased," he said. "On the other hand, I think we may go below the amount allowed by the House. I think it will balance out to the point where we will sustain a major share of the savings."

Byrd said that as he analyzes the situation, claimed House reductions of $1,100,000,000 in eight money bills actually would result in a 660-million-dollar cut in Eisenhower's $71,800,000,000 spending budget for the year beginning July 1.

The Virginia senator said that of appropriations made in the regular money bills about 60 per cent goes for expenditures in the year for which they are made. About 40 per cent, he said, represents authorizations for future years and thus do not bear directly on the spending in the new fiscal year.

Byrd said that Congress ought to wait and see just how much reductions in presidential money requests are going to be reflected in actual spending before it makes any move toward tax reduction.

Ike Continues Slower Car Pace

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to the White House today at a leisurely pace after a weekend at his Gettysburg farm.

The President made the 80-mile trip in two hours and 10 minutes, traveling at the posted speed limits all the way.

President To Open Season With Traditional Pitch

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower goes out to Griffith Stadium tomorrow afternoon to throw a baseball and in this traditional fashion inaugurate the 1957 major league season.

Sunny weather, a bit on the President and some 28,000 other fans expected to watch the Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators in their hour of undivided glory.

As happens every other year, Washington stages the opening diamond show a day ahead of the other clubs. And this time the Orioles get their second chance to share the limelight since moving to Baltimore from St. Louis in 1954.

Manager Charley Dressen of the Senators tabbed Bob Chakales for the coveted opening day pitching assignment. For Chakales, a 29-year-old right-hander, starting any kind of game is almost unique.

He worked 43 last year, but all except one in relief. He won 4 and lost 4.

Brown

Hector Harold (Skinny) Brown, a 32-year-old knuckleball exponent, was manager Paul Richards' choice to try for the Orioles' first opening day triumph. Brown, who has been knocking around organized baseball since 1946, had a 9-7 record last season.

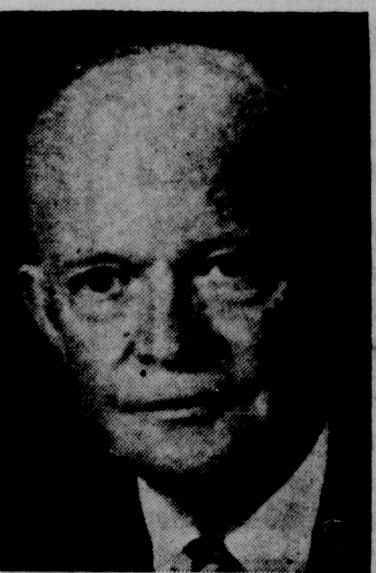

Chakales and Brown notwithstanding, the pitcher of prominence will be the 66-year-old right-hander up from the White House. Eisenhower has hurled the season under way from his first baseline box each of the last four seasons, although he needed a postponement to get back in time from a golfing vacation his first year in office.

Before they let go at each other, the Senators' and Orioles will scramble to retrieve the pitch and earn a Presidential handshake. The ball, presented as the 10 millionth produced by Spalding for the majors since 1876, is then to be shipped to the baseball hall of fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

A large portion of Washington's official family also will be present, including Supreme Court justices, cabinet members, generals and admirals. Lots of lawmakers, too. This is the afternoon grandmothers of Congressmen take sick in droves.

Anthony Eden 'Satisfactory'

BOSTON, April 14 (AP)—Former British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden, recuperating from a 75-minute liver operation, today was reported in "satisfactory" condition after a "reasonably comfortable night."

The Lahey Clinic bulletin added, "There is a mild degree of fever, which is normal postoperative reaction at this time."

Fourth

The 59-year-old Eden underwent his fourth operation in as many years yesterday to remove an obstruction in a bile duct which caused frequent fever attacks.

An artificial biliary tube inserted in 1953 by Dr. Richard Cattell of Lahey Clinic, who also performed yesterday's surgery, was to have been removed but was found to have passed into the intestines and out of the system.

Canadensis Motorist Perishes In Accident

Lawler Terms Shortway 'Vital Link'

HIGHWAYS Secretary Joseph J. Lawler is on record as saying the Keystone Shortway "must be considered as one of the most vital links in the entire interstate highway system."

He told a conference of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Industrial Development Commission at Hazleton that the Sharon-Stroudsburg freeway proposal "is of vast importance, not only to this region, but to the entire Commonwealth."

"It is important to the development of an adequate defense transportation system in time of war. It is of equal importance to the development of a strong economic base, not only for the regions it will serve, but for the entire nation."

Forming as it does an important segment in the direct-line highway projected between Chicago and New York, the Shortway was described by Lawler as the "most efficient and economical method of meeting federal demands" for a new east-west interstate highway through Pennsylvania.

Lawler said the state has been working for eight months to have the Shortway designated as part of the federal interstate system. The U. S. Public Roads Bureau is withholding action on the Shortway pending receipt of additional information requested last month and now being compiled by the department.

Some opponents of the Sharon-Stroudsburg route have "belabored the issues involved," said Lawler, and have concentrated their efforts to have U. S. Route 6 designated as Pennsylvania's second east-west interstate link.

Surveys made by the state and by Michael Baker, Inc., showed the wisdom for the Shortway's inclusion on the interstate system and the continuance of Route 6 on the federal-aid primary system, Lawler said.

For one reason, he explained, comparisons of distances on the two routes from Cleveland to Taneyville showed the Shortway route would be 363 miles, while the distance on U. S. 6 was 408 miles. Cost of constructing the Shortway was estimated at $268,651,000 compared to $281,466,000 for converting Route 6.

On Feb. 15, Lawler said the Highways Department renewed its request for approval of the Shortway, but the Public Roads Bureau said in reply that it wanted additional traffic and cost estimates on a modified route from Sharon to Port Jervis, N.Y., by way of Lock Haven and Scranton.

If approved, this road would cut across New York State in the vicinity of Peekskill and dead-end in Connecticut in the heavily congested area north of New York. The Baker firm was retained on March 5 and is now compiling the added information sought by the federal bureau. When the survey is completed, Lawler said, the findings will be submitted to Washington together with further data on the original Shortway route which the bureau had requested.

In another development, it was announced that congressmen who represent most of the districts along the proposed Shortway will meet this week, possibly tomorrow, to coordinate their efforts to win federal approval for the Sharon-Stroudsburg route.

Scranton Man Dies Of Wounds

SCRANTON, April 14 (AP)—A 60-year-old magazine salesman was stabbed to death today in the kitchen of his North Scranton home in what police described as the climax of a family quarrel. The victim was identified as Russell L. Dunn, Asst. Dist. Atty. William J. Kearney said the dead man's wife, Ann, 51, signed a statement in which she admitted stabbing her husband with a butcher knife. She was held on a general charge of murder and is to be arraigned tomorrow or Tuesday, Kearney said.

The couple, was married about 10 years ago and had no children. It was the second marriage for Dunn. He is survived by two daughters by his first wife.

Kearney said Mrs. Dunn told them her husband had been drinking and began abusing her while eating dinner. He said she told him her husband lunged at her and that she struck at him with the knife in a defensive gesture.

Kearney said the woman insisted she didn't want to hurt her husband, only to scare him.

An autopsy at Scranton State Hospital revealed Dunn suffered a fatal stab wound of the heart.

Two Congressional Leaders Expect Speedy Action On Postal Bill In Congress

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—Two congressional leaders today agreed that a money bill to let the postman deliver mail again on Saturdays should whisk through Congress in practically no time at all.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) of the House Appropriations Committee said "I expect no difficulty" when the House tomorrow takes up the measure to give Postmaster General Summerfield another 41 million dollars.

Senate Group May Push For Reforms

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today the special Senate committee investigating racketeering in the labor-management field may push for reform legislation at this session of Congress.

McClellan told a newsman the bipartisan committee, which he heads, already has more than a year's work ahead of it. But he said the group may decide to submit some legislative recommendations before completing its investigations.

The committee will resume public hearings Tuesday with testimony about what McClellan described as the use of "goon squad" violence by labor union officials in the Scranton, Pa., area.

First Round

Its first round of hearings dealt with affairs of the giant Teamsters Union and was highlighted by the refusal of Dave Beck, the union president, to say whether he had used union funds for his own enrichment.

Beck invoked the Fifth Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination. McClellan said it would take five years to investigate all the complaints that have been received by the committee, set up by the Senate to conduct a year's investigation with a budget of $350,000.

McClellan added that probably all Congress wanted was "to get a good pattern of what is going on so that we can legislate."

Lenten Meditation

By Rev. John A. Gangaware
Pocono Lake Pilgrim Church

FOR I KNOW That My Redeemer Liveth.—Job 19:25.

The importance of the resurrection is established by its emphasis in the New Testament.

Job in faith finds a foothold here, triumphs when all natural expectancies were barren, and His life apparently must close in a storm.

My Redeemer or Kinsman liveth. Job nor anyone else can not settle his own case. Mankind is too deeply involved and works of his own are not sufficient. I Pet. 1:18: "Forasmuch ye know that were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold." "But with the precious blood of Christ." "Jesus paid it all."

This Redeemer is a vindicator. Our adversary, the devil, is an accuser, and man cannot answer, but "Five bleeding wounds He bears and they effectively speak for me." Heb. 12:24—"The Blood of sprinkling speaketh of better things."

The Redeemer must take over man's lost estate. Man has lost his innocence, but he can find and have peace with God.

He has lost life. Without God, he is in a state dead in trespasses and sins. He can be made alive unto God, and becomes a Son of God.

He is called unto Holiness, but, "Oh, wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from this body of death?" The answer is my Redeemer, Jesus Christ.

David in the 23rd Psalm declares, "He Restoreth My Soul." Much has been taken, and is buried, not evident, but Christ the Light, the Life, the Gate, the Restorer of Men.

Job's cry of faith vibrates all believers: "I know that my Redeemer liveth."

Car Leaves Highway, Hits Three Trees

CRESKO — A 21-year-old Barrett Township motorist was fatally injured in a high-way mishap near here early yesterday, but his companion suffered relatively minor injuries.

Warren Freeland Seese of Canadensis, a laborer for the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, died about three hours later in General Hospital, East Stroudsburg. Dr. Charles H. Rushmore, Monroe County coroner, attributed death to a skull fracture.

His cousin, Robert Seese, 22, also of Canadensis, escaped with only a back injury, and did not require hospitalization. Investigating Trooper James Horan of the Mount Pocono Substation said he would see his family physician.

Both men were thrown out of their 1955 sedan after it crashed into three trees near the Hickory Valley Farm restaurant on Legislative Route 171, four miles east of Mount Pocono, at 12:10 a.m. troopers said.

Proceeding North

State Police reported that the victim was proceeding north toward Cresco when the car ran off the right side of the highway, and then swung across to the opposite side and crashed into the trees.

The victim was treated at the scene by Dr. Lawrence R. Furlong, Cresco, before being transported to the hospital in the Barrett Township ambulances. He was pronounced dead at 2:45 a.m.

The car, owned by the victim's father, Garold Seese, was completely demolished. It was valued at some $1,400.

Seese was a member of the Canadensis Methodist Church and a 1953 graduate of Barrett High School.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garold Seese, Canadensis; two sisters, Mrs. Norman Hughes, Broomall, Pa., and Mrs. George Dellinger, Tafton, Pa., and a brother, George, at home.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Lantierman Funeral Home with Rev. Edgar B. Moore officiating. Burial will be in the Prospect Cemetery, East Stroudsburg. Friends may call at the funeral home between 7-9 p.m., Tuesday.

Pope Pius To Continue Fight Against Bombs

VATICAN CITY, April 14 (AP)—Pope Pius XII assured Japan's special H-bomb envoy today he intends to continue his efforts to have nuclear weapons outlawed.

After a virtually unprecedented Sunday private audience, Dr. Matsushita told reporters he was "very much pleased" at the pontiff's attitude.

"His Holiness already knew about my mission. He told me he had spoken several times against use of nuclear weapons and gave me a copy of his 1956 Christmas speech."

In that address the Pope declared: "Only in the ambit of an institution like the United Nations can promises of nations to reduce armament, especially to abandon production and use of certain arms, be mutually exchanged under the strict obligation of international law." He endorsed aerial inspection as a means of enforcing disarmament pledges.

Vatican sources, who confirmed Dr. Matsushita's version of the Pope's remarks, hinted the pontiff might refer to the subject again in his Easter message next Sunday. He rarely grants audiences on any Sunday and Palm Sunday usually is a day to which he devotes the greatest reverence.

Dr. Matsushita, personal representative of Japan's Prime Minister, came here from Britain, where he appealed to British leaders to call off their coming H-bomb attacks at Christmas Island. The appeals were rejected but Matsushita said yesterday in Zurich he believed the British eventually would heed, "as a result of the moral pressure we are exerting."

Brooklyn Official Speaks On Major League Scouting System At Communion Breakfast

JAMES MURRAY, public relations department staff member for the Brooklyn Dodgers, addressed 102 members of the Holy Name Society of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Roseto, yesterday morning at 10 in the ballroom of the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Murray lauded members of the Society for setting a good example for young men by receiving corporate communion in preparation for Holy Week.

The title of his talk was "The Scouting System of a Major League Ball Team."

Murray stressed that Scouts look for four cardinal assets in a potential big league ball player.

He said the potential star must be able to "run, throw, field and hit."

But, he emphasized, there are personal characteristics which are equally important if a man is to be signed by a major team.

They are, he said, "character, personality and reputation." The ballplayer must be a gentleman, a good citizen and an intelligent potential businessman, he said. After the player has been "scouted" he will find that visits are made to his church, high school coach and his home to learn more about his character.

Murray said that "creed, nationality or politics mean nothing" in the major leagues, and that "nothing matters but ability."

Anthony Baratta, chairman of the arrangements committee, presented a gift to Murray.

Philip Falcone, president, reviewed work done by the Holy Name during the past year.

Remarks were given by mond Heller, of Stroudsburg, and Mrs. Etta Rinker and daughter, Mrs. John Weiss and son, Bobby, of Effort.

It means a lot to a boy to be close friends with his father. He's apt to want to look like him, dress like him, be like him.

If he sees his father's regular deposits at the bank bear interest and build up enough to buy himself a bicycle, he's likely to take up the habit of thrift for himself—and later, for his children.

One of the best favors that parents can do for their children is to start 'em young with a helpful, soundly managed bank. And who could be more welcome here than the young people whose families have dealt with us for years!

Large Turnout Expected For Opening Of Fishing Season

High Water, Temperature No Barrier

By Paul Carlson

HIGH WATER and low temperatures are not expected to dampen the enthusiasm of scores of ardent piscatorialists who have been straining at the bit for the last few weeks.

The big moment arrived at 5 a.m. today for hundreds of Monroe County males (and a smattering of females, too) who are affected by a common malady known as piscomania.

The disease reached its most aggravating stage during the last few weeks, during which sufferers have been spouting ridiculous words such as April gray, C-P swings, and line dressing.

They also have had an insatiable lust for fishing tackle catalogues and little regard for such mundane matters as bills, work and money. When a couple is so afflicted, babies have been known to go without milk so that the parents could buy new waders or spinning gear.

Spell Breaks

However, the hypnotic spell was broken for such unfortunate at the stroke of 5 this morning when scores of them came under the tranquillizing effect of stream and woods.

It was at that precise moment that the longest trout fishing season in Pennsylvania's history opened for the estimated 700,000 licensed fishermen in the state. The season will continue through Labor Day, Sept. 2.

In Monroe County, Fish Warden Floyd Bachman was unreservedly optimistic that fishermen would be taking home full creels on the opening day—even though the water was generally cold, high, and in some cases muddy.

"If a man doesn't take his limit from the Brodheads Creek on Monday," said Bachman, "there's something the matter with him."

All told, the Pennsylvania Fish Commission poured a total 38,000 brook, brown and rainbow trout into two lakes and more than 100 miles of stream in Monroe County during its pre-season stocking program.

A total 10,000 trout have been stocked in the Brodheads, open 10 miles from its mouth at the Delaware River to the village of Ananook. It received more than twice the number of fish placed in any other single stream in the county.

Even though it still shows scars of the 1955 flood, the Brodheads has retained its proud title of "the biggest little trout stream in the East."

Bachman further reported that, before the pre-season stocking was completed last Wednesday, 4,400 brown trout went into the Big Bushkill, and 3,600 browns and brooks were poured into Tobyhanna Creek.

Moreover, Pocono Creek received 3,500 brooks and browns, and the McMichaels was "fed" 3,600 browns and rainbows.

Bachman predicted that Deep Lake atop Big Pocono will draw its fair share of opening day anglers. He also felt certain that others would be aiming for some of the prize rainbows and browns stocked in McMichaels at the end of last season.

Debit Side

On the debit side, however, most creeks were running high and water temperatures were in the 40s. Some streams were still muddy over the weekend.

All this leads to the question of proper gear for the opener. Incidentally, all fish must be over six inches, and the daily limit is eight of one or combined species.

So get that frying pan ready, Mom. And don't be too tough on the old boy if he comes home wet and with that far-away look in his eyes.

500 Attend Conference Of Rotarians

POCONO MANOR—Over 500 Rotarians from 37 clubs in North-western Pennsylvania attended the Rotary International District 262 Conference here at Pocono Manor Inn on Friday, Saturday and yesterday.

The highlight of the three-day session was an address delivered by Congressman James E. VanZandt, Altoona.

Rep. VanZandt spoke on the subject, "Atoms for Peace." During the course of his talk the well known Pennsylvania lawmaker outlined a method by which atoms could be used for peaceful means as well as those designed toward war.

Another highlight of the conference was a talk delivered by Frank M. Begley, chief of the buildings management service of the United Nations. Begley spoke at the Saturday luncheon. His speech was entitled "United Nations' Position in the World Today."

Hiram W. McGrath, Rotary International's president representative, delivered a report on the activities of the Rotary International board of directors.

McGrath was presented by Dr. William Toewe, East Stroudsburg, who himself was introduced as the new district governor at the annual conference.

An international panel made up of students from Australia, Germany and Japan discussed the United States. George Ralston, Wilkes College, and first vice-president-elect of the Wilkes-Barre club, was moderator.

Yesterday's sessions were limited to paying tribute to departed Rotarians. Edwin C. Garbammer, president of the Wilkes-Barre club, was in charge of this production. Rev. Dr. Harold C. Buckingham, conference chaplain, gave the memorial address.

Thieves Burn Out Motor

FERN RIDGE — A Wilkes-Barre man arrived at the Fern Ridge State Police Barracks yesterday to recover his car which had been stolen over the weekend.

However, Leon Block informed troopers that the thieves apparently burned out the motor of his convertible before abandoning it near the Mount Effort Garage yesterday morning. The plates were missing.

Meanwhile, troopers reported that a 1950 tan tudor Chevrolet owned by Ada G. Ledward, Effort, was stolen from in front of her home sometime between midnight and 7 a.m. yesterday.

Area Post Offices Hopeful Of Delivering Mail Backlog

POST OFFICE spokesmen in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg said last night they hope to get all first class and important mail delivered today even though it's been piling up all weekend. This was the first weekend under an order by Postmaster General Summerfield which closed all third-class post offices in the nation on Saturdays.

Stroudsburg postmaster Fred Rhodes said last night that "we have a very heavy pile-up of parcel post" in the local office. This report was duplicated by Norman Gregory, East Stroudsburg postmaster.

Rhodes said that his office "expects to make a complete delivery of everything on hand today except for some third class mail." He said that some parcel post packages may be left over to Tuesday, however.

Third class mail includes "junk mail" such as advertisements and circulars. These generally come addressed only to "Patron, R.D." or "Tenant," etc.

Rhodes said the local post office maintained its "regular work force except for window clerks on Saturday." Primary purpose of Summerfield's order, according to the Postmaster General himself, was to cut down on expenses through non-employment of any other than regular employees and a cut-down on window employees.

Gregory said that his office hopes to get all first class, parcel post and other important mail delivered today.

Both offices, beginning this morning, will operate on the new window schedule of from 8:30 to 5 p.m. This is another decrease in service provided under Summerfield's order.

Glenn Flick Faces Charge

GLENN V. Flick, 47, Stroudsburg, RD 2, has been charged with the Feb. 21 burglary at the George N. Kemp Post, American Legion, East Stroudsburg. Twenty dollars was taken from the cash register. Flick was arrested near Wilkes-Barre Friday by East Stroudsburg Police Chief Travis Seese and Stroudsburg State Trooper Alex Keam. He was subsequently ordered held for court action at a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Elmer P. Bean.

Two McAdoo Youths Sent To Parents

TWO McADOO youngsters were turned over in the custody of their parents over the weekend after being charged with the theft of some $67 in merchandise from the Army and Navy Store at 503 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Borough Police Chief James McConnell said the boys, aged 11 and 12, broke into the store Friday night and made off with two pairs of engineers boots, a leather jacket, a number of hunting knives, a canteen, and other items.

Discovery

The break was discovered by the manager, Gilbert H. Zager, when he opened the store Saturday morning. The building had been entered through a rear door.

Police said the juveniles were taken into custody a short time after the burglary was reported. They were apprehended at the home of Allen Garris, 727 Sarah St.

Garris told police he had given the boys a ride in his car when he saw them hitch-hiking. The youths said they were going to visit relatives in Columbia, N. J. When Garris was unable to find the relatives, he returned to Stroudsburg and notified police.

Truck Hits Car, Barricade

SWIFTWATER — Some $2,300 damage was caused last night when a truck crashed into a passenger car on Route 611 near the bridge construction project here.

Mount Pocono State Police said the truck, driven by Elton L. Richards, 22, Binghamton, N. Y., was traveling south when it apparently lost its air brakes.

The truck collided with the car driven by F. L. Paterson, 32, Allamuchy, N. J., and then continued into a stone barricade near the construction project, troopers said. The wheels were knocked from under the truck as it hit the barricade.

There were no injuries, State Police said.

"But Can It Be Found In The Bible?"

People often indignantly demand that Catholics prove their teaching from the Bible.

The Bible is their "rule of faith" and they argue that every man has the right and ability to discover for himself, by his interpretation of the Bible, what he must believe and do in order to be saved.

We do not question the sincerity of these people and we applaud all who strive earnestly to understand and observe the Scriptures. But—are they right in calling the Bible, privately interpreted, the sole source of Christian teaching?

"Hold the teachings that you have learned," wrote St. Paul, "whether by word or by letter of ours" (2 Thess. 2:15). He refers to Christian teachings, some oral, some written... and demands that all be received.

Christianity did not begin with the Bible. It began with the coming of Christ. The Lord instructed His Apostles to "go forth... teach all nations"—and to insure that His truths would always be maintained, Christ established His Church, "...the pillar and mainstay of the truth" (1 Timothy 3:15).

The last part of the Bible... written by St. John... was not completed until 60 years after the Crucifixion of Christ. There was no Bible in anything resembling its present form until nearly 400 years after Jesus had died on the Cross. And the widespread distribution of the Bible as we know it today was impossible until the invention of printing, some 1400 years after the Savior's death.

By what "rule of faith" did the millions of Christians live during those 1500 years?

The answer is, of course, that the teaching of the Church was the rule of faith for the Christian world. And St. Paul reminds us that Christianity consists of "one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism" (Eph. 4:5). "God is a God of peace, not of disorder," St. Paul said further (1 Cor. 14:33).

Yet today we have nearly 300 different religious denominations, all calling themselves Christian... all professing the Bible as their rule of faith... and all differing to some extent or another in their understanding of what the Bible means. Could Christ have left a "rule of faith" that would permit such confusion? Would He have left the interpretation of His Word to the fallible and changing judgments of men—when our very souls depend on a correct understanding and observance of the things Christ has taught us?

Because it certainly does matter what a man believes, we invite you to examine the rule of faith of the first Christians—a rule that is still maintained by the Catholic Church. Because the Bible is God's Word, and because He gave it to us for a purpose, we invite you to see what this purpose is. An interesting pamphlet on the correct use of the Bible, will be sent to you free, in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. KC-13.

Johnny Q. Public Takes Part In Annual Rush To Beat Tax Deadline At Midnight

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—Tomorrow is the deadline for filing 1956 income tax returns to the federal government. And, as usual, it's expected to set off a frantic flurry of action by the procrastinators.

The Internal Revenue Service estimates that 60 million individual returns will be filed and that 55 million of them will bring in cash—an estimated 38½ billion dollars. Some people have to file returns but don't make enough money to be taxed after deductions.

Technically the returns are supposed to be postmarked before midnight tomorrow or be subject to penalty charges. An unknown factor this year is what effect the weekend curtailment of some mail services will have on the last minute filers.

Postmaster General Summerfield ordered a shutdown of all 38,000 post offices on Saturday with the exception of those of the fourth class, those generally manned by storekeepers in rural areas. That meant only special delivery mail is being delivered over the weekend and other mail is piling up in post offices and mail boxes.

Summerfield ordered the curtailment of services until Congress provides him with 47 million dollars he insists he needs to run the Post Office Department until July 1. The House appropriations Committee has agreed to 41 million and the whole question may be straightened out this week by Congress.

Until tomorrow there's no one who's willing to say exactly how much of a tangle the post offices will find themselves in the weekend pileup.

Revenue service officials, however, indicate they don't expect the mail situation to be too much of a problem for the taxpayers. Information officer James Rivers said the service isn't usually too strict in assessing penalties when a tax return is postmarked a day or two after the March 15 midnight deadline.

Rivers explained that it would cost more money to assess penalties in such cases than enforcing the technicality would bring in.

Postal Service Curtailment Under Attack

Postmaster General Summerfield took drastic means to dramatize the financial plight which faces the Post Office Department until the start of the new fiscal year.

In carrying out his threat to curtail postal service unless Congress voted him a 47 million dollar emergency appropriation to run his department through July 1, Summerfield struck at something that is traditional in our American business and social life—the U.S. mail.

The postmaster general said he was running out of money because demand for mail service had grown more than his department anticipated when it drew up the budget before the start of the current fiscal year.

Democrats charged in effect that Mr. Summerfield violated a law by overspending his budget for the first nine months of the fiscal period. Later, however, Budget Director Percival F. Brundage said he helped bring on the department's money crisis because he was comparatively new on the job and didn't understand part of the federal bookkeeping system.

He said he had been told by the Post Office a number of months ago that it would run out of money this Spring, but that he kept turning down the department's request for more funds.

Congress is expected to approve an emergency appropriation of 41 million dollars to run the postal department for the remaining two and one-half months of the fiscal year.

An appropriation of this amount, coupled with economies estimated at five to six million dollars, would remove the twin threat of closing the postoffices on Saturdays and eliminating home mail deliveries such as occurred here and elsewhere last Saturday.

But it will not remove the basic cause for the deficit problem which has plagued the Post Office Department these many years.

That will come about only through the adoption of postal rates that are in keeping with the times, plus a revamping of the service where its operations are outmoded.

Fifty years ago, the rate for sending a letter or package by first class mail was two cents an ounce. In 1932, the rate was raised 50 per cent—to three cents an ounce—and it has remained there ever since. Second class mail rates (for newspapers and magazines) were raised 30 per cent in 1952.

But, while the postal income has held fairly steady since the horse-and-buggy days, the cost of operating the department has climbed steadily every year, double and triple in most cases and as much as five to ten times in other instances. Wages, building costs, prices of supplies and office equipment, trucks, gasoline—these and many more are highly inflated when compared with the 1932 level.

Congress should realize that, although the Post Office Department performs a public service for the taxpayers, it also should be put on a more business-like basis by being made to pay its own way.

By increasing rates, the people who use the mails most would be contributing most to wiping out the department's annual operating deficit, and that's the way it should be. Let's hope Congress looks at the problem in a practical light and comes up with a solution that is fair to everyone.

As an added wish, let's hope Mr. Summerfield looks upon curtailment of Saturday mail as a thing of the past. Eight or ten years ago, mail deliveries were reduced to one-a-day on a "temporary" basis to save money, but, like so many other government practices, the word "temporary" is only an excuse for making something "permanent."

Two Great Pastimes Open 1957 Season Today

Today is a great day for sportsmen. It marks the official opening date for two great sports seasons—trout fishing in Pennsylvania and major league baseball across the country.

Locally, trout season will get the greatest play as thousands of men, and not a few women, take to the streams in quest of the "big ones." The State Fish Commission says trout waters in the Pocono area are in much better shape than they were a year ago, so the eager anglers are expected to be out bright and early if the weather is right.

When President Eisenhower throws out the first ball in today's opener between Washington and Baltimore, the 1957 baseball season will be under way in earnest. The major and minor leagues have been training in warmer climates, so their arms and batting eyes should be in fine fettle. But, under warmer weather rolls around, most of us will be content to watch our baseball from a comfortable seat next to our television sets. Players and fans alike will be interested in the new rules that baseball has adopted.

One requires the umpire to call a strike when a ball touches the clothing of a player in the strike zone. Another rule is one which will allow the call of a ball by an umpire for a batsman if a pitcher takes too long in warming up, hitching his britches, spitting, rubbing his glove, resorting to the rosin bag, staring into centerfield and so on. Under the rules, he has 20 seconds to deliver the ball after he receives it from the catcher. This should help to speed the game.

Let's play ball!

George Sokolsky Says...

West Must Pay Attention To Emergence Of Dictator Nasser With Soviet Support

The Middle East is as much a muddle today as it was a year ago, if not more so, and the Eisenhower Doctrine and the pronouncements of John Foster Dulles and the legalisms of Dag Hammarskjöld have produced no end to the belligerency of Egypt or the Jihad of Saudi Arabia or the inclination of Israel to risk its future on the ordeal of arms.

Not since the 8th century has there been such a propulsion of Islamic enthusiasm for power. All that has been accomplished thus far by American diplomacy has been to reduce the authority of Great Britain in the Middle East, to smash the French North African Empire, to imperil the existence of Israel and to drive Nasser into a closer association with Soviet Russia. Should another local war break out in the Middle East, will the United States find itself allied with Soviet Russia against Western Europe? And to what end? Or shall we wait until the Marxist Universal State discovers in Islam a direct competitor and then shall we find ourselves in alliance with Nasser against Russia and Red China?

The peril is that local wars are liable to break out in the Middle East all the time. Quite apart from the Israel-Egypt situation, Jordan, which was manufactured and subsidized by Great Britain, is likely to pass away like the winds of its own deserts. Will it be absorbed by Saudi Arabia or by Syria? If by Saudi Arabia, does Jerusalem remain partitioned; if by Syria, does Jerusalem come under Russian influence? Will Jordan's future be settled peacefully or will there be a war over it? The United States has undertaken to train a Saudi Arabian army, navy and air force. It does not amount to much and the President was authorized by Congress to spend some extra money in Middle Eastern countries. But should King Saud attempt to add Jordan to his territory, would the United States be a party to this sort of colonialism, while objecting to British and French and Dutch colonialism? In the pragmatic guesswork that has become American policy, is colonialism virtuous when practiced by an African or Asiatic nation and evil when practiced by a European country?

There seems to be no consistency in our thinking or in the execution of our foreign policy. Certainly Nasser, who has not exhibited any gratitude for the United States rescuing him from defeat by Great Britain, France and Israel, is still being pampered by American diplomacy, which hopes somehow to wean him away from the Russians who are again using Egypt as a base for the provisioning of Arabic countries with arms and munitions. Should Nasser turn on Russia, at our prompting, are we prepared to fight Russia over the Middle East? Should Nasser disappoint us by continuing his alliance with Russia, what steps do we plan to take to redeem our position in the Middle East? In a word, have we not moved into a trap which makes war with Soviet Russia over the Middle East an inevitability?

Or to argue conversely, do the Russians need a war in the Middle East while Egypt and Syria work for them in all Arabic countries, meanwhile paralyzing Western opposition to Soviet Russia by lulling the American State Department into a condition of desuetude? Obviously, if Russia can take over the Middle East without war, it is more efficient and smarter to do it that way than to shoulder the burdens of war. Therefore, it is to be presumed that the Russians will continue to employ political means. Thus far, Russia has been extremely successful in the use of political rather than military weapons.

And there is another advantage in that, namely, that when Westerners see that no general war, involving Russia, occurs, it is assumed that conditions are improving and that right policies are being pursued. It need never be forgotten that Russia achieved her greatest victory, the conquest of China by Marxism, while the West was preoccupied with the romantic excitements of the Berlin Airlift. There is no reason why we cannot keep our eye on the ball and in the Middle East, our particular ball is the emergence of the Nazi-inspired dictator, Nasser, supported by Communist Russia.

Determined Courage Solved Her Problems

By Anne Heywood

Cervantes said once that when a threatening thing happens to a puppy, a baby and a kitten, they react as follows: the puppy slinks off, frightened; the baby cries for its mommy; but the kitten stands its ground, hissing and ready to attack.

The same thing is true of human beings when trouble strikes—we either collapse from fright, cry for help from others or settle down to battle it out ourselves.

Successful Way The latter is, of course, the successful way. If you can take it on faith that every problem has a solution, then you can, as soon as it rears its head, get all your energy together to solve it. In fact, it's that very first reaction that determines, in most cases, the whole outcome.

Mrs. N. is a good example of that.

Her life has been no easier than most, but she has trained herself to solve problems as they come up—no matter how difficult. "I learned early in life," she told me, "that the energy we usually put into fear, regret and self-pity, is more than enough energy to solve the problem in the first place."

Gives Cooking Lessons I met Mrs. N. because people had been telling me about her fascinating cooking classes for children. Every Tuesday and Saturday she teaches a group of youngsters from ten to fourteen. The boys learn how to cook barbecue dishes and hamburgers and all kinds of "masculine" specialties and the girls run the whole gamut. The classes are very inexpensive and are held in Mrs. N.'s own kitchen—or in her backyard when it's warm.

"I make about fifteen dollars a week over the expenses of materials and so forth," Mrs. N. told me. "And it's such fun! I began it the day after I learned we couldn't adopt a baby. We can't have any of our own and, because my husband and I married late in life, the adoption agencies think we're too old to adopt children."

Big Disappointment "It was a terrible disappointment, but I decided to have children in our lives anyway."

"I handle the Tuesday afternoon class myself, but Harry joins me in the Saturday one and has a good time. Of course, we get friendly with the children, and the 'graduates' keep in touch with us even when they go off to college. It's a little like having a family of one's own."

Threatened, A Kitten Stands Its Ground

There's a woman who could have made self-pity a lifework, but instead, met it with courage and collected a real jackpot!

James J. Hill, builder of the Great Northern railroad, was a stickler for detail. On one inspection, he spotted a brand new spike lying on the roadbed, and angrily summoned the section foreman. The latter sized up the situation at a glance, and beat Hill to the punch by exclaiming, "How wonderful of you to k-rate that spike! I've had three men looking for it for a week!"

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Russia Tests Nuclear Arms At Greater Pace Than U.S.

Washington, April 14 — Those frequent Russian nuclear tests are grimly significant in a wholly new way.

For the first time, the number and rate of these Soviet experiments exceed those of the U. S. Following is the sinister record on that:

In the past 12 months, Western detection facilities have recorded 17 atomic-hydrogen detonations inside Russia. The actual number is believed larger. Experts deem the Reds now capable of conducting secret nuclear tests.

During this period there were 14 U. S. firings. A new series of atomic shots, to test storage and civil defense structures of various kinds, is starting shortly in Nevada.

While Atomic Chairman Lewis Strauss has not said a word about this profoundly important development, it can be reported as having powerful effect on military estimates of Russia's nuclear strength and capabilities.

These authorities now have grave misgivings that the Soviet stockpile of atomic-hydrogen weapons and capacity to produce them have been under-estimated. Directly attributed to this ominous situation is the Kremlin's terror campaign against nearby NATO allies, threatening them with nuclear annihilation. Never before have the Communist czars been so brutally ferocious in such fulminations.

The Line-Up — Overall, the U. S. is still well ahead of Russia in quantity of nuclear weapons and number of tests.

Since the first atomic blast on July 16, 1944, at White Sands, N. M., the U. S. has tested 76 nuclear and thermonuclear weapons and devices. Of that total, 60 have been announced.

In the eight years since the Russians' first atomic explosion, 52 have been recorded by Western detection facilities. Experts estimate the actual number may be as high as 60. Even those known have not all been announced by Chairman Strauss. He discloses them only when he "considers it in the interest of the U. S. to do so."

According to Joint Congressional Atomic Committee, only 10 of the Soviet's 16 nuclear explosions in the past year have been revealed by Strauss.

Until recently, the U. S. was estimated to have 8 to 10 times as many atomic weapons and twice as many hydrogen bombs as the Reds.

These highly favorable U. S. ratios are now being revised downward.

Last July, the Japanese Public Safety Investigation Board issued a report estimating the U. S. atomic stockpile at 3,000 bombs as compared to 300 to 500 for the Soviet, and 30 hydrogen bombs as against 15 Russian.

Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.), then-chairman of the Joint Committee, asked about this Japanese estimate, replied, "Information regarding nuclear weapons is among the most carefully guarded secrets. It is not possible to comment in any way on that report."

Intelligence and other authorities are not quite certain that Russia has the following:

A "family of bombs" ranging in size from one and two kiloton atomic tactical bombs to twelve and more megaton hydrogen bombs.

Nuclear artillery shells, naval mines, and warheads for anti-aircraft and other missiles with ranges up to 500 miles.

It has also been definitely established that last November the Reds exploded a bomb made of "natural uranium." This type is rated as the most powerful nuclear weapon yet created.

Fall-Out — There will be at least three "open shots," which the press will be able to cover, at the coming series of tests in Nevada. There is an outside chance President Eisenhower may attend one of them. He has expressed that desire, but whether he can go depends on how long the tests last and when Congress adjourns. The latter is expected to be around July 25, and the experiments may run into August, depending on weather conditions.

Atomic Commissioner Thomas Murray will be reappointed for another term. This interesting prediction is being made by a Republican member of the Joint Committee, Representative James Patterson (R., Conn.), who favors Murray being renominated despite Commission Chairman Strauss' opposition, is making the forecast to friends. Patterson's private comments are particularly significant in view of the fact that 11 of the 18 members of the Joint Committee have written President Eisenhower urging Murray's reappointment. Named by Truman, Murray's term expires June 30. He is noted for his outspokenness, and clashes with Strauss over policy issues. Signing the extraordinary letter to the President were Representative Carl Durham, N. C., chairman; Senator Anderson, vice chairman; Senators Richard Russell, Ga.; John Pastore, R. I.; Albert Gore, Tenn.; Henry Jackson, Wash.; and Representatives Chet Holifield, Calif.; Melvin Price, Ill.; Paul Kilday, Tex.; John Dempsey, N. M.; and Patterson.

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

The production of a flicker is a fantastically complex operation encompassing countless details and a handful of coin. Over 3 years of effort went into the making of "The Ten Commandments." Historical research alone cost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Over 1800 reference books were utilized as well as numerous ancient documents which sent researchers to the far corners of the globe. Then there were several months of location work in Egypt and the Holy Land involving thousands of people. Camels and a zoo-full of other animals were used. Expensive sets were built — some towered as high as 100 feet. Of course, the writing of the script the signing of the stars, the rehearsals — these were all part of the massive plan. P. S.: A critic witnesses the cinema in a few hours and decides whether or not it is worthwhile.

Birth pangs are also common to artistic creations. For example, some of Judy Garland's most happy musicals were the consequence of personal anguish. Miss Garland endured the torture of rigorous dieting in an effort to maintain a trim torso. During the making of a movie her diet consisted of black coffee and cigarettes — for breakfast, lunch and dinner. The physical and psychological consequences are easy to imagine. Once, during a dance sequence, Judy dropped from exhaustion. "Get on with it," the director ordered after she was revived. "Get on with it and you won't feel so hungry." The result of the star's self-torture were such gladsome musicals as "Girl Crazy," "Babes on Broadway" and "Meet Me in St. Louis."

"Around the World in 80 days," Mike Todd's rich triumph, represented his greatest gamble. Todd who has risked $10,000 on the turn of a card, gambled over a million on the celluloid roulette wheel. He had over a million dollars worth of stock in Todd-AO when he began planning "Around the World in 80 Days." Associates sought to dissuade him. Todd, nevertheless, decided to back his judgment with cash. Although he was a millionaire, he risked going broke again by borrowing on the Todd-AO stock and went into production. Todd hit the jackpot. He won Fort Knox, Oscar and Liz.

Imagination gives birth to creative efforts. Moreover, the flesh and blood of clippers are frequently the result of a director's imaginative skill. He transforms actors into human beings

Mrs. C. Daniel Biemesderfer

Miss Dawn Peechatka Bride Of C. Daniel Biemesderfer

Tannerville—Miss Dawn C. Peechatka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair W. Peechatka of Scotrun was married on Saturday morning at 11 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Tannersville, to C. Daniel Biemesderfer, son of Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Biemesderfer, of Millersville.

Rev. Edward T. Horn, pastor, performed the ceremony. The altar vases were arranged with white snapdragons and white chrysanthemums. Church pedestal vases held Pocono Mountain greens. Miss Lois Wamsher of Coatesville was the organist and Thomas Santiso, also of Coatesville, was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta with a fitted bodice, Sabrina neckline, with an embroidered instant sparkling with pearls and long tapering sleeves. The bouffant skirt ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held by a crown of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a crescent cascade of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Wayne Saxton of Endicott, N.Y., was matron of honor, while Mrs. Elmer Kresge, Jr., of Tannersville and Miss Margy Lowe, of Sayre, were bridesmaids.

They all wore ballerina length of silk organza with the fitted bodice fashioned with scoop neckline and cap sleeves, and the skirts very full. They wore matching crowns with over-the-face veils and carried spring fantasy bouquets of violets.

Robert Biemesderfer of Bellefonte served as best man. Ushers were Harold G. Groff of Lancaster and Farley Peechatka of Scotrun.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress with lilac and pin accessories and corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

A buffet luncheon for the immediate families was held at the Bartonville Hotel before the newlyweds left for a tour of the Southern states.

They will make their home in Coatesville where Mr. Biemesderfer is principal of the Gordon Junior High School, where his bride is also a member of the

Y-Gradale Election, Other Events

Election of officers will mark the meeting of Y-Gradale tonight at 8 at the YMCA. All members are asked to be present to select their new officers.

The club will be the guests of the Bangor Y-Gradale on Tuesday night. Anyone wishing transportation may call Mrs. James Detrick.

At the latest meeting of the Y-Gradale E. M. Rahn was guest speaker. Having just attended the International Beauty School in New York, he gave a preview of the new trends for the coming year which are very short and casual with no long-hair styles shown this year as the new hats are designed for short hair. A question and answer period followed.

During the business meeting, the Easter Egg Hunt to be held the Monday after Easter for children of the members was planned and each member is to supply ten colored eggs. The club will again sponsor a fall fashion show to be presented by Wyckoffs Store, to be held the third Thursday of September.

President Shirley Detrick welcomed the girls from the Bangor Chapter who were guests for the evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jean Farry, Mrs. Betty Fegley, Mrs. Mary Scheiler and Mrs. Mildred Shaw.

Class To Sponsor Decorating Of Parish House

Bartonville—Devotions opened the meeting of the Berean Class of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School held at St. John's parish house on Thursday night, April 11. Mrs. Sally Harps read the Easter story from St. Luke and Mrs. Florence Marsh led in prayer.

Mrs. Clyde Beeher presided at the business session when reports were presented. The painting project was discussed and the class decided to sponsor redecoration of the parish house.

A vote of thanks was extended to Richard Metzgar for building a cabinet for the church. All materials used were donated by Mr. Metzgar. Varnishing was done by Samuel Dunbar who also received the thanks of the Bereans, backers of the project.

Plans were made to hold a pot luck supper on the next meeting night, May 3, at 6:30.

Mrs. Florence Marsh was appointed to read the Scripture lesson at the May meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Richard Metzgar and Mrs. Clyde Beeher. Decorations were in the Easter mode.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dunbar, Mrs. Sally Harps, Mrs. Clyde Beeher, Mrs. Daisy Allegre, Mrs. Margaret Halstead, Mrs. Richard Metzgar and Lana Kay Beeher.

Mrs. Bartholomew Again Heads St. Peter's WSWs

Saylorsburg—The monthly meeting of the women's Society of World Service was held Monday night at the home of Mrs. Harold Ulmer in Ackermanville with Mrs. William Bartholomew presiding.

Plans for the convention in Harrisburg in May were discussed. Mrs. Steve Borden and Mrs. Paul Walters will be delegates. A special meeting was planned for May 12 when Mrs. Harold Eaton of Stroudsburg will tell of her recent trip to the Orient. A love offering will be received to be sent to mission work in the Philippines.

At the business meeting, Mrs. William Bartholomew was re-elected president; Mrs. Ruth George, vice president; and Mrs. Lloyd Brong, secretary-treasurer. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wildoner, Mrs. John Bartholomew and Clark, Mrs. Carrie Gruver, Mrs. Willard Serfass, Mrs. Abbie Faulstick and Mrs. James G. Eckley.

Crippled Children's Board Approves Three Projects

The executive board of the Monroe County Crippled Children and Adult Association, Inc., met last week at the YMCA. Mrs. Roman Batory, president, presided.

It was announced that a special wheelchair had been obtained for a local cerebral palsy patient. Mrs. Olaf Pedersen was appointed a delegate to the State Convention to be held May 23rd to 25th at York, Pa.

Mrs. Helen Webb reported that upon a visit to the Day Care Center it was discovered that the children needed sneakers to be used in the gym. The executive board approved this purchase and were told that the children were thrilled with them.

Nelson Westbrook, chairman of the Easter Seal Sales reported that the return has been fairly good but that he would like to urge all who have not returned their money to do it at once.

Mrs. Helen Reinhart, chairman of the camp committee, announced that she had contacted the State Nurse, Mrs. Ann Shaffer, and she had advised her that there were two children who would like to go to Camp Daddy Allen, which is the State Camp for crippled children at White Haven. The board authorized Mrs. Reinhart to make the arrangements to send these two children.

Plans were made to assist with the Orthopedic Diagnostic Clinic for Monroe County on Wednesday, April 10, at the General Hospital with the attending physician Dr. White.

McCann, field representative for Eastern Pennsylvania of the Pennsylvania Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., was present and urged the board to keep up the good work.

There were twelve board members present, including two new members, Perley Webster and Russell Swingle. The next meeting of the executive board will be held on July 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Y.M.C.A.

Miss Sweet, Ray Gower Are Married

The Effort Methodist Church was the scene for the early spring wedding of Shirley Ida Sweet to Ray Robert Gower on Saturday, April 6, at 2 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sweet, Effort. Mr. Gower is the son of Mrs. Mabel Gower and the late Raymond Gower of Kunkletown.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. LeRoy Bernard. Miss Sara Hostetter of East Stroudsburg was organist. Miss Elizabeth Frailey of Bartonville, was soloist, singing "Through the Years," "Because," "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina gown of Alencon lace and chiffon. Fashioned with a round neckline and long pointed sleeves the bodice ended in points in the bouffant skirt of chiffon. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion with scalloped edges, trimmed with pearls fell from a crown of seed pearls. She carried a small bouquet of calla lilies.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Sweet chose a blue silk print dress with a fitted wool jersey jacket. She wore a corsage of yellow cymbidiums. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress with pink accessories and corsage of cymbidiums.

The attendants wore gowns styled alike of chiffon over taffeta and tulle. Fashioned with brief sleeves and a wide pleated

Jesus Falls Third Time, Remembers Face Of Peter During Prediction Of Denial

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the ninth chapter of a 12-part Easter season series to be written by Leonard Randolph. The series is entitled "The Way of the Cross." It will appear each day between this date and Easter.

Ninth Chapter

FATHER! Grant me the surge of strength I need to carry this human burden to the hill that looms above me.

Now I have fallen again into the dirt of Man's path. Some of those within the crowd have begun to sicken at my torture. If I am beaten again, surely there will be some who will beg that I be spared more torment. Here come the soldiers now. They have shut their hearts to this and feel no anger or fear. Their faces are masks and their eyes stare in the face of this death as stones at the sky in a relentless storm of rain. There is compassion in one of them, but even he will not dare to show his heart to other men.

And now I remember the face of great, sure-minded, gentle Peter, who in his heart has built the earth's great refuge for Your love and mercy. Today has been a dark and deathless one for him.

It began in darkness in the garden, when those who love me lay asleep as I begged them to watch one hour with me. Their eyes and ears were closed. And this was meant to be. For they are worn beyond endurance by a world of worry and fear.

These men have fought such great temptations to follow me. Help them now, dear Father, in their unending agony for what they know must be.

Deliver unto Peter all Your mercy and Your love, my Father.

In this man I have seen the secrets of all human greatness the world shall see. He is the rock, the high hill, the mountaintop of Your exaltation on earth; he is the broad, level plateau of Your compassion; he is the valley of the sorrow and the suffering of Man-kind; he is the dark chasm of their despair.

Help him this hour, Father, for now he is wandering in a desert of self-hatred and denial; in him Man shall see for the first time the true nature of Man's guilt. Help him to turn his face upward again and walk in days to come with a sure heart and pure meaning.

He could not believe when I told him he would deny me before morning. At first he nearly smiled, rejecting the idea as some wild dream, even from my lips. But he could not. His half-smile turned to bewildered anguish and he was deeply hurt by what I said.

That he denied me, I know. And it is this denial we must make men see.

For Peter was a part of the plan of this passion. Had he not denied me, these things could not be happening as you would have them be, Father. There would be other deaths today, an endless chain of punishments — and these must come in Your time, not in Man's.

Now Peter suffers as I must suffer. And this is great and horrible torture, for it shall live through long nights and endless hours of dark questioning. For he is punishing himself and lashing his own flesh. I cannot help him now, for he is somewhere out of sight, beyond the center of this crowd.

Father! Father! Make him see that each thing happening to me is for the good that you have willed on earth.

I saw him again, after he denied me. And then the full force of what he had done had settled upon him. Most of them would not have stayed to look at me. And yet he did, his eyes following me like green leaves turning with the sun.

Something within his face changed at that moment. And some of the hatred he had poured upon himself was gone. Tears sprung to his eyes and filled them until they coursed in two great rivers down the rough uneven lines of his face.

Those tears shall live forever. They are his symbol and his sign. They shall be deathless because they were not shed for Man's Son, dying, but for the sin of Man and for the death each man must bring to me by his denial.

Help Peter now, my Father. Help him to see that though the Son of Man shall die today, he shall live on forever in all men.

Help him to see that in this path to death I carry his guilt with me.

Three Fires Keep Company In Action

NEWFOUNDLAND — Three fires in as many hours kept Greene-Dreher firemen busy yesterday afternoon but the flames were kept to a minimum because of fast action.

The first alarm was called in by Mrs. Otto Deegan of Panther, Pike County, who was alone in her home at 1 p.m. when she discovered her chimney was on fire.

Mrs. Deegan said she first rang a dinner bell hoping to attract the attention of her husband and another couple who were hiking in the woods. When she realized they were not within hearing she got a ladder and a bucket of water but was unable to extinguish the blaze.

Three Trucks

Mrs. Deegan then called the fire company and three trucks and 30 men responded in a matter of minutes despite eight miles of hazardous roads. They quickly subdued the blaze.

Fire and smoke were confined to the kitchen wing but one wall was badly burned.

Less than an hour later, a second call came from William Arrington, Route 507, Greentown, where another chimney fire was quickly brought under control with no damage.

The third blaze started in a chimney in the home of Floyd Webster, Route 90, midway between Newfoundland and Hamlin. Again the fire was confined to the chimney and was extinguished by firemen directed by Fire Chief

Toll Bridge Commission Attempts To Recover $95,000

DOYLESTOWN, April 14 (AP) — The Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission seeks to recover more than $95,000 in fees and salaries paid former commissioner Alexander R. Miller and R. Chapman Carver.

The suit, filed in Bucks County Court and reported yesterday, alleges Miller, of Easton, collected $42,791 in salary and $21,375 in per diem fees from 1946 to 1955. The amount sought from Carver, of Ivyland, is $24,050 in salary from 1948 to 1955.

The commission alleges these payments were illegal and sought to collect them in a suit filed in U.S. District Court last August but dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

Miller and Carver, along with other former commission members and employees, have been indicted on charges of mishandling commission funds. The two have sought a court order declaring their salaries "reasonable and legal."

Bush Says Cut Budget Needed

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP) — A Pennsylvania Republican Congressman said today that the federal budget must be cut, particularly in defense spending and foreign aid.

Rep. Bush, whose district embraces Williamsport, said with costs of state and local government rising, and taxes going up, the federal government must set an example by reducing expenses.

Young People Give Pageant

DELAWARE WATER GAP — "The Challenge of the Cross", a pageant, was given by young people of the Cherry Valley Methodist Church in the Water Gap Presbyterian Church with a large congregation present.

It was the fourth time the group had given the program, under leadership of Rev. Clyde Levergood. Miss Nancy Spencer had the part of Evangel. Cross bearers were Sidney Jean Heller, Lois Young, Beverly Young, Faith Kirkhuff, Rosemary Schuler, Sandra Haney. With Mrs. Elwood Haney at the piano, the interlude hymns were sung by Mrs. Louis Pente, Mrs. Clyde Levergood and Mrs. Gorman Roof.

Before the service, the Cherry Valley folk were guests of the local Junior and Senior Youth Fellowships at a covered dish supper in the Sunday School room. Mrs. Herbert Baker was chairman of the supper committee which served 60. Mrs. Herbert Buzzard is adult advisor to the Fellowships.

Ens. Tredinnick is the son of John E. Tredinnick of 164 Spring St., also of East Stroudsburg.

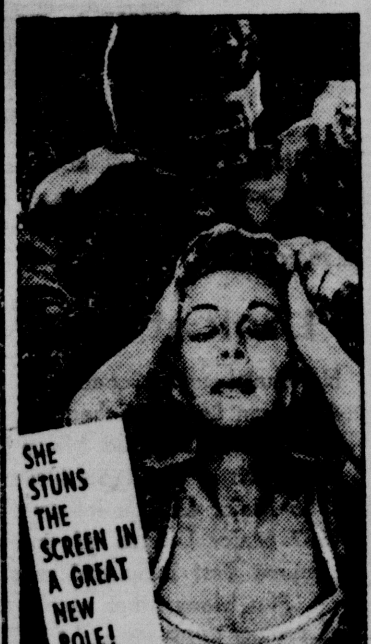

Under a new Navy program, he received his wings half-way through the advanced phase of flight training at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla. He is now undergoing helicopter training at the Ellyson Naval Auxiliary Landing Field, also at Pensacola.

Real Earthy Type Joke

CAMDEN, N. J., April 14 (AP) — Delaware Twp. police received a telephone report today that the body of a fashionably dressed, red-haired young woman was near the entrance of an abandoned riding academy.

Police sped to the scene. At first glance they saw what appeared to be just what the telephone tipster had reported — a young woman with red hair, wearing high heel, open-toed red pumps. A closer examination revealed that someone had mounded up the dirt, covered it with a piece of black cloth, put the red shoes at one end and a red wig at the other.

Week's Fight Card Features 'Spider Sugar, Pineapples'

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

THE SPIDER seeks his 20th straight victim and Sugar meets Pineapples in a couple of the top boxing bouts of the week.

Ellsworth (Spider) Webb, third ranking middleweight contender from Chicago, is favored to get No. 20 on Wednesday night when he meets lanky Randy Sandy of New York in a radio-television 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium.

They were originally matched for March 13 but Sandy injured a hand in training and the Spider stung sub Wilf Greaves for a unanimous decision. A member of the great U.S. 1952 Olympic team, Webb has posted a 21-1 record, including 12 knockouts. Sandy has an 18-6-1 record.

Celts' Snare Of Title Ends Owner's Shaky 11-Year Wait

BOSTON, April 14 (AP) — Eleven years of frustration were ended today for a "stubborn man" who dipped into his own bank account to keep professional basketball alive in Boston.

Brown, who is president of the Boston Garden Corp., didn't go into details about his hectic 11 years as boss of the Celtics in the NBA. He was too happy.

But others recalled how he and Lou Pini, owner of the auditorium in Providence, R. I., joined forces and purchased the Celtics outright when the garden corporation wanted no more to do with the club following poor seasons a few years ago.

"Win For Brown"
"We wanted to win for Mr. Brown," said the great Bob Cousy following the Celtics' 125-123 overtime victory in double overtime over the St. Louis Hawks in the seventh and deciding game of their championship series.

Blue Mt. R-G To Meet Today

BANGOR—A business meeting of the Blue Mt. Rod and Gun Club, Bangor, will be held today at 8 p.m. at the club house. Charles Williams, chairman of arrangements, is scheduled to report on the progress being made for the club's first annual banquet Friday, May 24, at the Blue Valley Farm Show building. A film, "Great Land—Alaska," also will be shown. The club expects to have several members on hand at Graceland tomorrow to assist in enlarging the pheasant pens there. This is a County Federation project. Volunteers are to bring shovels, pliers and wire-cutters.

Women With Heart Trouble Find Hope

BOSTON, April 14 (AP)—Heart disease "need not be a deterrent to pregnancy" and "virtually all" women with heart conditions can safely undertake having a baby, in the opinion of a Harvard medical school doctor.

He said, however, that he was "prepared to retreat" from the latter broader statement — presumably if evidence contrary to his own experience were presented and outweighed it.

Dr. James Metcalfe voiced the view today in an interview after he and Dr. C. Sidney Burwell, also of Harvard, reported to the American College of Physicians on results of a six-year study of pregnancies among heart-diseased women. The ACP ended its 38th annual meeting today.

They said there were 320 pregnancies among 276 such women observed in the study carried on at Boston Lying-in Hospital, and that only three deaths occurred from heart disease in the six-year period.

Divisions

Eighty-five per cent of the women had rheumatic heart disease; 12 per cent had congenital heart trouble; and the remainder had miscellaneous heart conditions.

"We've seen patients with all degrees of severity of heart disease go through pregnancy successfully," Dr. Metcalfe told a reporter.

He said pregnancies in heart-diseased women should be cared for on an individual basis, but that in general, the key rules involve:

1. Controlling activity of the patient.
2. Reducing the intake of salt.
3. Controlling anemia, overweight and infections.
4. Giving early and continuous care.

He said that in the Harvard series of cases, only three of the 276 women required "prolonged" rest in bed either at the hospital or at home during their pregnancy, although he said "many" of them were brought into the hospital for a few days from time to time to evaluate their condition.

Having a baby while afflicted with a heart condition, he said, requires balancing the heart's budget, just like a woman balances the family economic budget.

World War Puppet Suffers Bullet Wounds

Buenos Aires, April 14 (AP)—

Ante Pavelic, puppet premier of Croatia in World War II, was wounded in an assassination attempt last night. Police said an assailant fired six shots at Pavelic, then fled.

Two of the bullets found their mark. One lodged under Pavelic's right arm and the other in his spinal column. Police refused to give the name of the hospital where he was taken. They quoted him as saying his assailant was "an agent sent by international communism" or an agent of the Yugoslav legation in Buenos Aires.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

MONDAY, APRIL 15, 1957
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—You may feel some restraint but look beyond yourself and your immediate interests and you will find new benefits to be had for the effort. Plan ahead.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Scan your schedule carefully and get started without anxiety or needless rush. You make better time, accomplish more by working steadily than through sporadic bursts of energy. Gains indicated.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—This day is a good one in which to plan the week's work and activities. Do so calmly, wisely and without apprehension. Familiar matters, work for which you are trained can move ahead now. Be ambitious.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Make improvements, correct mistakes, better your output and the quality of all your efforts. True achievement need not be measured by financial increases or "showy" gains.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Headway indicated in industrial matters through smart personal maneuvering and by making needed, astute changes. This can be a friendly, helpful day with your help.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—The best use of your artistic talents and a skillful handling of your obligations will bring gratifying results. Don't strain for top achievement; rather advance carefully, if a bit slowly, and gain more lasting benefits.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Take the instruments at hand and make them produce for you. This means intelligent action and know-how in presenting your ideas. Each day you can make some gain—even if it's only experience.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)

CAP Works On Rescue Project

MOUNT POCONO — Members

of civil air patrol squadron 1403 met at Mount Pocono airport recently under the direction of Lt. John J. Stokes, commander, for training in rescue. Twenty-two seniors and cadets were briefed on the rescue mission at 11:20 hours.

The group moved out at 12:20 hours in search of a simulated plane, crashed at Hawkeye Pond, approximately one and one-half miles through woods from the airport. Walkie-talkies and compasses were used by the victims and the rescuers in keeping communications with the airport and obtaining directions.

All necessary first aid material was on hand, such as stretchers, first aid kits, etc. Contact was made at 1:30 hours at the scene of the crash.

The airport was manned by senior members. The rescuers returned to the edge of the air field with one casualty and were met by the civil air patrol ambulance along with trained first aid personnel.

Dr. White Gives Formula For Long Life

BOSTON, April 14 (AP)—Having "nervous indigestion" or sufficient will power so you'll moderately restrict your diet—plus having long-lived ancestors in your family tree—might help you live to be 106, Dr. Paul Dudley White indicated today.

White, internationally known heart specialist, implied as much in introducing to some of the nation's top doctors a 106-year-old "healthy" friend of his—as a demonstration "of the possibility of long life."

Example
Among other examples of the durability of his scientific exhibit — Charles Theiry of Belmont, Mass. — White related that "just last Monday, he got his coat caught in the door of a taxicab and was dragged on the road a few yards, and the only injury he got was a slight bruise on the hand." Also, he walks a mile a day.

Slightly-built, bearded, and seemingly very alert mentally, Theiry took it all in as he sat in the well of a lecture amphitheater at Massachusetts General Hospital during a special clinic for doctors attending the annual meeting of the American College of Physicians.

They interjected a few comments of his own including what a hotshot Gen. Grant was in the Civil War. He even whipped out his upper false teeth to demonstrate that "I still got a few down here"—his lower jaw.

Confirmation Classes In Two Churches

PALM SUNDAY confirmation services were held yesterday in Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, and last night in St. Paul's Church, Craig Meadow. Rev. William F. Wunder officiated at both services.

Members of the confirmation class at Grace Church were as follows: Marie Louise Elnoff, Sarah Arlene Lamberson, Lanette Loretta Lockard, Elizabeth Ardella Martz, Sharon Marie Melnhart, Judy Ann Mery, Brenda Ann Metzger, Linda Darlene Smeltz, John Shafer Baird, Bruce Potter Bean, William Elwood Brinker, William Lynn Miller, James Allen Miller, Brian Braig Morris, and Henry George Townsend.

St. Paul's
At St. Paul's Church, the class was composed of Patricia Ann Beards, Paulette Bonnie Beards, Howard Kiefer Canfield, Kay Pamela Smith, Harry Robert Van-Vliet, Jean Anita Yetter, and Van Daniel Yetter.

The classes will attend the annual service for confirmations on Sunday, April 28, at 1:30 p.m. in St. John's Lutheran Church, Easton. Hundreds of confirmations from all area churches will attend the service, Rev. Wunder announced.

Firemen To Pay Respects

MILLARD A. MARSH, chief of the Stroudsburg Fire Department, yesterday requested all firemen to report in uniform at the fire house at 7 p.m. today.

They are to go in a body to the William H. Clark Funeral Home to pay their respects to the late Harry H. Rodenbaugh, a member of the company.

Traveler Dies In County

JOSEPH B. HILL, 59 of 10 S. 33rd St., Camden, N.J., who was stricken while on his way through Monroe County a week ago, died at 2:30 p.m. yesterday in General Hospital where he had been a patient one week.

Easter Egg Hunt Set For Children

SWIFTWATER—An Easter egg hunt for the children of the Reformed Sunday School has been arranged for Good Friday, April 19, at 2 p.m. in Hahn's field. Rain date will be Saturday, April 20.

The young people of the church will hide the eggs, and have arranged for prizes for those finding specially marked eggs.

Story

Following the hunt, Mrs. Grant Keiper of Stroudsburg, will present a flannelgraph story in the church.

Refreshments will be served. Mothers are urged to accompany the children.

Campeotto In Army Exercise

EIGHTH DIV., GERMANY.
April 12—PFC Richard Campeotto, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Yoch, live at 884 Scott St., Stroudsburg, Pa., recently participated with the Eighth Inf. Division in "Lion Noir," a two-week field training exercise in Western Germany.

Campeotto, a field wireman in the division's Eighth Signal Co., entered the Army in March 1956 and completed basic training at Fort Carson, Colo.

He was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in 1954.

Two Dens Of Cub Scouts Learn About Fire Equipment

SWIFTWATER—In connection with the theme "Cub Scout Firemen" Cub Scouts from Dens Seven and Nine of Pack 91 spent Thursday night at the Fire House in Mount Pocono, where they were given a conducted tour of the building.

Each piece of equipment was carefully explained to the boys and demonstrated. The boys were impressed with the indoor water tanks, the pump and the hose.

Firemen explained that in order to pump water from a lake or pool the fire trucks must be able to get within at least 20 feet of the water. The 1,200-gallon indoor tank now makes it possible to train firemen all year under shelter.

Radio System

George Curnoles demonstrated and explained the radio system, and pointed out the danger in false alarms. He also demonstrated the walkie-talkie.

The boys saw three different kinds of fire trucks, and were shown the different advantages of each.

After the tours and demonstrations were completed, ice cream, was served to the boys.

Boys attending were: Russell Eggert, Gordon Heller, David Wallingford, Harry Nauman, Jackie Hamblin, Eddie Banzhof, Tommy Niering, Richie Leies, James Hoffman, Victor Pasko, Kit Sanborn, Wayne Manchester.

David Nelson, Wayne Curnoles and Bruce Curnoles.

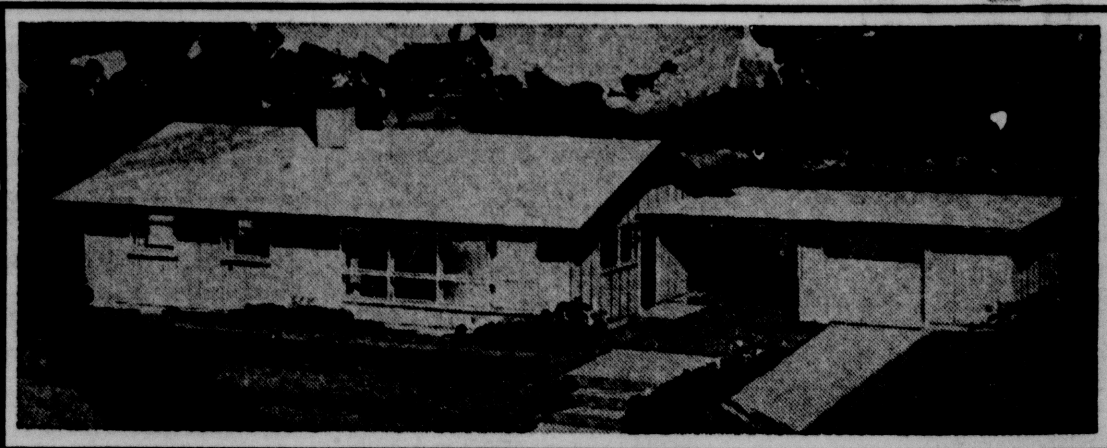

Adults present, other than the firemen, were: Mrs. Hoffman, den mother of Den Seven; Mrs. Cecil Heller, assistant den mother of Den Nine; Mrs. Juanita Pasko, Mrs. Wayne Wallingford, Thomas Neiring, Russell Eggert, Richard Leies and Mr. Curnoles.

Diplomat To Quit

RANGOON, April 14 (P)—Burmans are known far and wide as a fun-loving as well as a pious people. Raja Hewavitarne, Ceylon's minister to Burma, told the Rotary Club he has had enough and is going home to escape what he calls the artificial life a diplomat must lead as a party-goer in Rangoon. He complained there was no time for intelligent talk.
